SALT LAKE CITY, - - Utah.

FRIDAY, - - - - APRIL 30, 1886

LOCAL BRIEFS.

Wells, Fargo & Co.'s shipments yesterday were base bullion, valued at $3,350.

McKinnick & Co. received, yesterday: Hammer bullion, $5,000; Queen of the Hills ore, $1,250; total, $6,250.

Spectators will be admitted to reserved seats in the first circle at the children's ball to-morrow, at a charge of 50 cents.

A case of oranges was lately received in this city from the orange farm of Mr. James Jack, which is situated in Southern California.

The case of the United States vs. H. W. Naisbitt, charged with unlawful cohabitation, is set for trial in the Third District Court to day.

Articles of incorporation of the Rock Creek Placer Mining Company have been filed with Secretary Thomas, and a certificate issued therefor.

"More secrecy on the track," is the way the Utah ticket agents announce that the D. & R. G. has been blocked with another land slide.

Judge Lake yesterday received a dispatch from General McFarrland, at Denver, stating that he would arrive to-night over the narrow-gauge.

T. R. Jones & Co. received, yesterday, two cars Germania bullion, valued at $5,215.20; lead and silver ore received, valued at $5,401.50; total, $10,616.70.

T. A. O'Leary, better known as "Fred," has his shing suspended as a dentist, at the old homestead, on the corner of Third and South Temple streets.

The Nineteenth Ward Sunday School Dramatic Association are busy rehearsing their new play, "Better than Gold," which will be ready for presentation in about two weeks.

The second company of this season's immigrants from Great Britain will leave Liverpool May 22d, the third company June 26th, the fourth August 21st, and the fifth October 19th.

Mr. Chris. Dimes informs us that all the barbers of the city, twenty-one in number, have agreed to close their shops every night at 8 o'clock, sharp, except Saturdays and evenings preceding holidays.

James Stewart and William Upfield were arraigned in the Police Court yesterday, on the charge of engaging in a fight. Both, it appears, were equally guilty, and both were fined in the same amount—$5.

Frank J. Cannon answered not guilty to the double indictment against him in court yesterday. Owing to the absence of Mr. Dickson, the case went over till to-day, and Judge Zane sat but a few minutes during the morning.

One poor solitary individual was pulled into the Police Court yesterday, on the charge of leaving his team untied. If the ordinance under which he was fined were strictly enforced, even at $1 per head, there would be a marked increase in the revenues of the city.

Marshall Ireland, Captain Greenman, Clerk Miller and Deputies Franks, Smith, Oudishe and Vandercook, yesterday sat for their pictures in a group at Newcomb's. This settles it. Hurd and McKay will have to flock together, or the records of the Great Anti-Polygamist Era and Pro-Lascivious Epoch in Utah will be left incomplete.

Professor Austin, the well-known scientific skater, has been tendered a testimonial to take place at the rink this evening. The programme is announced in another column, and is probably the best that has been given at the rink for a long time. The professor has gained the esteem and goodwill of all who have met him during his stay in this city, and his well-known proficiency alone should fill the house.

CANE VERSUS FIST.

Two Main Street Men Come From Words to Blows.

There was a quick but sanguinary encounter in Hollander & Co.'s drug store the other day, no mention of which has found its way into print thus far, but which the police were engaged in looking up last evening, and which will therefore become a part of the public chronicles before long. Mr. W. H. Yearian entered the drug store, and had not been in long before hot words ensued between him and Mr. Hollander, the druggist. Rainer has it that the dispute arose over a matter of $2.50 alleged by one to be due to the other, but this is only rumor. At any rate Mr. Yearian in the course of his remarks referred to the druggist as a stinker. Mr. Hollander retorted with a "b—" and Mr. Yearian struck him a forcible blow across the eyes with his cane. He returned by planting his fist in the midst of the exclaiming man's countenance, and with a few more passes and hard words, the affair ended. Both men retiring to the rear to wash off the traces of the unpleasantness. Mr. Hollander is left with two very mournful eyes. Mr. Yearian's damage have not been ascertained, but he has been seen less frequently than usual in the street since the affair.

Tom and Jerry.

The fame of this cold-weather beverage as dispensed at The Occidental, is widespread. The stock of liquors, wines, beers, ales, cigars, etc., kept at this old established house are of the best brands. Families desiring novelties for the holidays should be there in mind.

THE SNOW CASES.

The Supreme Judges Much Interested in the Matter.

ATTORNEY MAURY RATTLED.

The Arguments Closed—Richards and Curtis Make Things Warm for the Opposing Counsel.

Special to THE HERALD.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 29th.

F. S. Richards closed the argument to-day in the Snow cases. His reply to Assistant Attorney-General Maury was able and eloquent, briefly discussing the law points advanced on the part of the government. He insisted that the questions for the court to pass upon were: whether there could be constructive cohabitation and a segregation of offenses, when, in fact, there had been but one offense. In replying to Mr. Maury's remarks about morality, Mr. Richards was impressively eloquent, and the court paid marked attention. The questions put by the members of the court to counsel, yesterday, indicate clearly a desire to construe the law so as to relieve the hardships the construction given by the court below would impose on the people affected. Justice Bradley, yesterday evening, desired Maury, on the part of the government, to say what course polygamists should pursue in regard to their plural wives.

The Chief Justice remarked to Maury that he could take till this morning to answer the question. To-day the Chief Justice, Bradley, Miller and Field pressed the Assistant Attorney-General to answer, but he avoided and, becoming excited, declared it would have been infinitely better if the Mormons, years ago, had been put to the sword. Curtis protested, and called upon Maury to explain, but his explanations were awkward. Richards, in closing, made effective use of Maury's ill advised expression.

REMOVING THE OFFICES.

The Plan Assuming Definite Shape At Last.

The rumored removal of the Federal offices from their present quarters in the Wasatch block to the Walker Opera House, may now be said to have assumed something like definite shape. John F. Free, who has had the matter in hand, and who has been in the East in the interest of the removal, has returned home, and was met by a Herald reporter yesterday. He said it was considerably more than likely that the transfer would be made; that a number of the leading officials at Washington had endorsed the proposition; and that the Postoffice Department would send an agent here to investigate and report on the feasibility. It is thought the Inspector will arrive to-night or to-morrow. It is also understood that Mr. S. S. Walker, the owner of the building has agreed to make all the necessary changes, and that these will cost somewhere in the neighborhood of $7,000 or $8,000. The officials at Washington claim that they have the option of ending the Greenback lease at any time they may desire to do so. In case the change is made, Mr. Free said it was probable the west room on the first floor and the basement underneath would be used as the postoffice; and the room now occupied by Evans & Spencer as the Marshall's office; and the opera house proper would be turned into a court room. The present quarters of the Utah Commission will probably not be disturbed, and other arrangements made looking to the accommodation of the Surveyor-General. The terms and date of possession have been arranged, and all that remains to make the matter a "go," is the favorable report of the government's agent.

VIGILANT GUARDS.

A Bevy of Suburban Detectives Thought They Had Treseder.

It is no secret, or if it be, it is an open one, that the bondsmen of Frank Treseder are leaving no stone unturned to effect his capture, and that N. V. Jones, a very anxious Treseder should be here to testify at his approaching trial. Yesterday word came to the City Hall that a young man answering Treseder's description had been cornered in Cottonwood, and Marshall Solomon, with a policeman, at once took a buggy and proceeded to the place from whence word had been sent. Arriving in Cottonwood, he came upon half a dozen men gathered in a knot in the road. "Where is your prisoner?" the Marshal inquired. The men pointed to a house some twenty rods away, and said, "In there." "But he could step out the back way, and you would never be the wiser," said the Marshal, approaching the house. The men, however, were certain the doors were all locked, but when the first one was tried it yielded to the handle, and the house was found to be empty. The guards were somewhat chagrined, but the officers felt it less, as they are not at all of the belief that Treseder is in that section of the country.

A Fight at the Armory.

A rather "interesting" and bloody fight occurred at the Second South Street shooting gallery yesterday. The origin of the fracas and the names of the participants could not be learned, but our informant says, considerable blood was spilled, and a little glass broken. No arrests had been made at last accounts, neither party feeling disposed to make complaint against the other.

AMUSEMENTS.

THE GOLDBERG CONCERT.—It may be a discouraging fact, but it is a fact, nevertheless, that concerts do not pay in Salt Lake. Mr. Careless, Mr. Stephens and Mr. Young have found it so, and Mr. Gorinski no doubt discovered it last evening. A very showy dress circle came out to listen to the programme, but above and below there was nothing but empty seats. If the artists of the evening gave their services as a compliment to Mr. Gorinski he will make a trifle; if salaries are the rule, he will have little besides the consciousness of having provided a pleasant musical evening to repay him for his trouble.

The programme was too long and therefore the affair was not free from failure. We have Krouse, Radcliffe and Mr. Gorinski himself were down, it was of course inevitable that there should be solid enjoyment and no small enthusiasm. Wehe, it goes without saying, was the feature of the night; the two vocal quartets were handicapped by Mr. Krouse's inability to sing the tenor part, either because he was hoarse or that they were too high for him; at the piano he was masterly as ever, and he and his clever pupil, Mr. McIntyre, opened the evening in excellent style with the William Tell overture. Mrs. Siegel and Mrs. Lovberg were heard at their best in the Rigoletto quartet; elsewhere the latter was inclined to run out of tune. Mr. Gorinski was in the best of voice, and his Slave Ship gained an encore. Edith Clawson gained the first recall of the night, and sang in her usual charming manner a bird song which gave her trill and high notes an excellent opportunity. She would have pleased her friends by having something new ready for an encore. The night ended with the singing of the "Ave Maria" by Miss Anderson, Miss Conklin, Miss Gorinski and Mr. Krouse was brilliantly done, but a better selection might have been made. The instrumental quartets were hardly up to the standard, neither Mr. Monson nor Mr. Kordam played with the requisite smoothness nor the requisite time to enable them to stand with Wehe and Krouse. Mr. Radcliffe accompanied and played a solo in his usual careful and smooth style. The audience was rather cold and critical, though the notable numbers were heartily applauded.

A DROOPING VENTURE.

Typesetters of the Twinkler Suing for their Pay.

Every person who knows anything of the newspaper business has been aware for a long time past that the evening Democrat has been conducted at the expense of a terrific hole in some one's pocket, and just whose pocket it was became evident around the Police Court yesterday. Three employees of the paper, W. S. Cooke, the late foreman, and two type setters, appeared hunting for a lawyer who would undertake the collection of their claims against the Democrat, said claims being undisputed accounts of wages due for labor performed. They put the claim in the hands of Mr. Moyle, with a request that he obtain an attachment at once, on the rumored ground that there was some move on foot to transfer the property. What this move is has not yet appeared, but report connects it with Mr. Dennis, the Nevada gentleman who came over not long ago to see what sort of a field the Democrat enjoyed before casting his fortunes with it.

There have always been two marvels in connection with the paper in question; one was that it ever came into existence, and the other that having been established, the gentlemen who have allowed their names to be so frequently quoted by the stockholders and backers should have been content with a mere "playing at newspaper" as children do at keeping house. From the first it has been diminutive, trivial, inaccurate and rabid, echoing the Tribune without approaching it, and thereby rendering it impossible to gain any extended support from either side of the local factions. There is simply no room for it, and no possible field—as the one loudly trumpeted by now vanished Youth Democracy has probably discovered, and as the new editor, provided he decides to assume the load, will realize as each Saturday night arrives.

A gentleman holding a claim of $160 against one of the staff of the Democrat, was also consulting an attorney last evening.

New Bureau of Intelligence.

In their exhaustive list of instructions to deputy registrars throughout the Territory, the commissioners conclude as follows: The last paragraph would evince that the honorable gentlemen intend to have their registrars do double duty: "The deputy registration officers shall, immediately after the June and September revisions of the registration list, transmit to the secretary of the Commission, a statement showing the total number of registration voters in each separate list, the number of females in separate lists. They will also report the names of all persons whom they have good reason to believe have entered into polygamy since the June revision of 1885.

For the Commission.

Chairman.

PILING UP THE FEES.

Sixteen Witnesses and Only Four of Them Used.

As an illustration of how the fee racket is worked, THE HERALD this morning submits to its readers—the public generally—the following facts and figures. In the Dean case just closed the following witnesses were summoned and appeared before the grand jury:

Adelaide Bridges, Sarah Dean, Milton Bridges, Agatha Bridges, Flora Bell Stenhouse, William Breeze, Mrs. Emma Rich, Bishop Tanner, George Tanner, Clarissa F. Lovridge, L. Lovridge, Mrs. L. Lovridge, Martha Lovridge, Juliette Howard, Mrs. Geo. Wood.

All of the above were also subpoenaed to appear at the trial. Out of the fifteen thus mentioned, only three were used in the case—Mrs. Dean, Mrs. Bridges, Mrs. Wood—and George Wood was afterwards used to prove one point—that plural marriages were performed in the Temple. The four members of the Lovridge family and Bishop Tanner and his daughter—six, all—live at Provo, and were told, knew absolutely nothing about the case. It may have been possible that somewhere in the remote past, they had at one time or other seen, heard or dreamed of the alleged plural wife—Florence Bridges—but none of them had ever known Mr. Dean, the defendant, either by sight, name or reputation. The fees and mileage paid to these six witnesses amount to $78, and allowing half of this amount for their appearance before the Grand Jury, there was plainly an expense of $39 incurred for which it is hardly possible there was any reason, as must have been evident to the prosecutor after they had been before the grand jury. This being the case—and our information is reliable—there is but one light in which to view the matter, and that is the burning desire to pile up fees. There may be some other way in which it can be seen, but ordinary people will not be able to understand it.

STOCK MATTERS.

Cattle Dying at Grouse Creek—Horse Deal—Sparks & Tinnan's Herd.

Farley Kimball, who is just in from the great ranching country about Grouse Creek, brings news that the recent sheep visitations have resulted in a great many cattle dying off. The mutton carried the earth and the fulness thereof before them, and the feelings of cattlemen as a consequence are not the most joyful.

Horace Rockwell, of Skull Valley, is reported to have sold a band of 450 horses at $35 per head; the Baileys, of this city, are the rumored purchasers. Other horsemen discredit the account, and say the Baileys can obtain plenty more at that figure.

Sparks & Tinnan's cowboys left in a body the other day, out of dissatisfaction with the appointment of a new foreman. The herds of this firm, who are Texas men, cover a thousand hills in very truth. The number of their cattle in Box Elder County is estimated at 100,000, a trifling investment of three or four million. It is only a question of time when the county will get its assessor's claws on this handsome plant.

Suicide or Murder.

Thomas Wright came to town on Monday, bringing information that the body of a man was found lying near the roadside a short distance this side of the Island with a bullet hole in his head. The sheriff was notified, who telegraphed Coroner Bassett, who went up during the week and held an inquest, the verdict being that it was a clear case of suicide. Dr. Bean was taken along probably to prove that the blowing out of a man's brains would kill him, and to make sure that he was dead. That it was premeditated there can be no doubt. He had laid his gun down on a little knoll, and placing his head at the muzzle pushed the trigger back with a forked stick. Nothing could be found to identify him. In his pockets were some small scraps of newspapers containing advertisements of fur dealers. From his description he is supposed to be a man who was camped near the slaughter house just south of town several days last week. His pack animal was grazing close by, and the camp fire where he had cooked his breakfast was still burning. —Eagle Rock Register.

What Locality is Exempt

From malaria? In the city and suburbs, village and hamlet, in the mining districts of the West, the bottom lands of the South, in regions teeming with the fruits of husbandry, in trackless wastes inhabited with half naked savages, it exists. But travelers, sojourners, old settlers, all who are liable to it, can uproot from the system the diseases to which it gives birth, or prevent them, with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Chills and fever, bilious remittent, dumb ague and ague cake, are each and all overcome by this potent and searching specific. It is not less efficacious for liver complaint, dyspepsia and constipation, ailments not infrequently complicated with malarial attacks. Rheumatism, kidney and bladder troubles, and a want of vital strength, are also remedied by its persistent use. Appetite and sleep, always seriously impaired by the nervous disturbance and biliousness consequent upon fever and ague, are invariably restored by the Bitters.

A Desirable Hotel.

One of the pleasantest and most homelike hotels in Salt Lake, or for that matter in the West, is the well-known Spencer House situated on First East Street, between Second and Third South—Nos. 230 and 232. Recent improvements added to this already popular establishment places it in the front rank as an abiding place for families and all who desire a quiet and homelike establishment. In connection with the house proper is an elegant cottage; both are well furnished throughout, and are surrounded by well kept lawns, flowers and trees, affording an excellent shade, and all the comforts of a private garden. The table is also noted for its excellence, and particular attention is always given to the guests. A sure test of its popularity is the fact that Mr. Spencer has been enabled to retain so many of his customers for so many years.
